USDA-A Animal V

- ◆ Anesthesia
- ◆ Surgeries
- ◆ Necropsies
- Experimental procedures
 - - Brief explanation of the procedure
 - ◆ Adverse effects, if any occur
 - ◆ NOT experimental data
- Treatment plans, which should include:
 - Diagnosis (if possible)
 - Prognosis (when appropriate)
 - Type, frequency, and duration of treatment
 - Criteria and/or schedule for re-evaluation by the veterinarian
 - Medical restrictions per the order of a veterinarian (such as exercise or feeding)
- Results of routine health monitoring procedures (as appropriate for species) such as:
 - Weights
 - Viral screening/serology, fecal examinations
 - TB testing, Coggin's testing
- All entries must be signed or initialed and dated
- ³ Information contained in medical records must be:
 - Legible
 - Current
 - Consistent with professional veterinary standards
 - Sufficiently comprehensive to demonstrate the delivery of adequate veterinary care

Experimental data should be kept in a laboratory notebook and should NOT be kept in the clinical health record (CHR) or on cage cards. **

Location(s) where clinical health records may be kept:

CHRs must be kept within the animal facility or farm where the animals are housed or maintained. In most cases, this will be either in a designated common procedure room or in the animal room itself.

Acceptable health record formats:

- As long as all the above information is available, many formats are acceptable:
 - Electronic
 - Paper
 - Cage cards (e.g. for rodents with simple health records)
- Animal Resources provides standardized CHR sheets for investigators to record relevant health information (these are NOT for research data)

How long records must be maintained:

- ³ USDA requirements
 - Dogs and cats: Records must be maintained for 3 years after the disposition or death of the animal
 - Other non-rodent mammals: At least one year after the animal's disposition or death
- NIH requirements
 Records (data and fiscal) must be maintained for 3 years after the end of the grant
- Archived CHRs for non-rodent mammals shall be kept in URAR designated locations for review by IACUC, USDA-APHIS, and AAALAC
